3. A short description of the game

In our version this is a one-person game. In each round the player rolls three dice and puts them on top of cards. Next, he chooses one of the cards and places one die on his character sheet. In the next step, the player can make a purchase on the market using coins he owns. The player obtains coins by drawing the yellow die or by choosing the initiative card with number 2. The game finishes when all die spots are occupied by dice. The score is the sum of face values of the dice and the count of dice in the player's own assigned color.
